

Become an Organizational Member of ACGC!

As a coalition, ACGC primary mandate is to be a platform for members to network, learn, and advocate on issues of concern to member organizations. ACGC welcomes a variety of member organizations, including international development organizations, faith-based organizations, service clubs, educational institutions, public school boards, charitable foundations, and not-for-profits dedicated to the mission and mandate of ACGC, and committed to ACGC's Code of Ethics. Individual members of ACGC are also welcomed, with the main limitation being individual members cannot vote or hold positions on ACGC's Board of Directors.

ACGC currently has over 50 organizational and individual organizations, committed to working together through ACGC on matters related to international development and global citizenship in Alberta, Canada, and across the Globe.

Benefits of Organizational Membership

There are many benefits to becoming an organizational member of ACGC.

Information Sharing

- Receive ACGC's bi-weekly e-bulletin and have the opportunity to submit your organizational events and updates;
- Receive ACGC's quarterly Connect newsletter and participate in the quarterly member update webinar
- Share organizational resources with Educators through the ACGC Teach and at Teachers' Conventions;
- Showcase organizational profile on the ACGC website, ACGC publications, displays, campaigns and public engagement events throughout Alberta
- Receive timely information from partners and various levels of government, including updates from Global Affairs Canada

Policy and Advocacy

- Be represented on policy issues to the municipal, provincial, and federal governments, including Global Affairs Canada;
- Be represented and participate in discussions with the Inter-Council Network (ICN) and the Canadian Council for International Cooperation (CCIC);
- Participate in round-table discussions, consultations, surveys and in the development of position papers on pressing policy issues

Capacity Building

- Participate in capacity building workshops and public engagement events, with FREE registration or member discount;
- Network and build relationships with individuals and organizations within and outside of the sector;
- Mentor, learn or partner with other organizations within the sector;
- Participate and vote in ACGC's Annual General Meeting and bring forward motions of interest;
- Vote and run for a position on the Board;
- Participate on and chair ACGC committees;
- Access tools, resources and sample policies;

Other benefits

- Borrow ACGC equipment and office space (e.g. LCD projector, easels, catering supplies, art supplies);
- Request letters of support for campaigns and grant applications